2. Our conclusions
Catena is committed to ESG. The company has implemented science-based environmental targets and an ambitious net zero policy by 2050. Catena invests in renewable energy and in the public sector and private sector. For instance, it operates a 500 MW solar power plant in Sweden. Moreover, Catena has low governance risk. It has all its operations in Scandinavia, a low-risk region from a governance perspective. It has strong ownership backed by one of the most credible Swedish real estate investors (and no cross-ownership as seen in many Swedish real estate companies), and it has adopted and is following several international ESG-related standards and protocols. The gender balance among its top leadership is also good at more than 40% females. We encourage Catena to continue with its green investments and would recommend it to link remuneration to these initiatives. We also encourage Catena to set up an internal audit function.
3. ESG risks identified (which may have material impact on the business)
EU regulation around the energy efficiency of buildings poses a material risk to Catena. If it is not able to comply with these regulations, Catena may ultimately lose business. However, energy savings seem to be on the top of its agenda, significantly reducing this risk.
4. Controlling shareholder
We deem the controlling shareholder(s) (normally the Chair of the Board or the CEO) to ultimately be the most influential power in the company, particularly when it comes to soft items such as business ethics, culture, and values, which are very hard to judge as an outsider. Catena is controlled by the Erik Paulsson family, through the family-controlled investment company Buckahill. They have approx. 22% of the capital and the voting rights. The Erik Paulsson family is represented on the board by Lennart Mauritzson, the CEO of Buckahill. We deem the family to be good, long-term focused owners with a very good reputation, particularly when it comes to real estate investments.
5. Questions and issues to discuss
We will encourage Catena to implement ESG-related targets linked to the executives' remuneration. We will also encourage it to set up an internal audit function.
6. Next step and outcome
Set up a meeting during spring 2023
